

Ballymoney Nursery School November 2021 Newsletter

I hope you all had a lovely half term with your children and got to explore the wonderful changes that are happening all around us in the outdoors. The children started the new part of the term by watching a performance from Mr Hullabaloo and they all thoroughly enjoyed it. We have a busy couple of months ahead of us as we continue to enjoy the nature in our outdoors, participate in raising awareness of local charities as well as looking after our environment. Before we know it, it will be time to start practising the Christmas songs!

Last term, there was a lot of children who unfortunately were unwell, for a variety of reasons such as tummy bugs, colds and infections. We as a team would like to thank you all for your constant communication with us and where necessary for having children tested with a PCR when they have shown symptoms. We would also like to thank again the families who have been in touch with us to let us know about positive cases within their households and for taking the cautious approach for their children to isolate from Nursery school for 10 days. This has helped ensure the safety of everyone within the Nursery school, in particular the individuals of our school community who are vulnerable.

Please remember to keep yourself and others safe by adhering to the measures in place to mitigate the risk of Covid-19 such as social distancing and the wearing of face coverings when dropping off and picking up. I would also like to encourage those that are not exempt from wearing face coverings to please wear them when in the school vicinity.

By communicating with each other and being cautious we will help each other get through this year safely whilst enabling the children to have an amazing experience at Ballymoney Nursery School.

Learning within the Nursery School

We will be participating in the World Nursery Rhyme Week - week beginning 15th November 2021.

Did you know??? Experts in literacy and child development have discovered that if children know eight nursery rhymes by heart by the time they're four years old, they're usually among the best readers by the time they're eight.

Nursery Rhymes are fantastic for developing children's early language and reading skills which is why we focus on them at school and encourage you to practise them at home. Young children have the capacity to learn and retain an enormous amount of information and by hearing nursery rhymes over and over they easily learn them off by heart. By teaching children nursery rhymes, we will help them acquire the following skills.

Language Development

Nursery rhymes help your child learn new words. They are easy for young children to remember and repeat as there are lots of rhythm and repetition. They introduce a child to new ways of using their voice as they can be loud or quiet, fast or slow and use a variety of inflections.

Early Reading Skills

Nursery Rhymes help young children understand the structure of a story as most rhymes will have a clear beginning, middle and end. In Jack and Jill they go up the hill, fetch a pail of water and then it all goes wrong. This is a whole story in just a few lines. It is also an old nursery rhyme so it will introduce your child to words they may not have heard before—pail for bucket and crown for head. This will help your child understand that there is more than one word for the same thing.

Physical Development

Children love acting out their favourite rhymes and they offer great opportunities to get them moving. Movements in action rhymes and songs will help develop a child's fine and gross motor skills as well as balance, coordination. They will also be developing the skills required to follow simple instructions.

Numeracy

Many rhymes will help your child become familiar with numbers and counting. Rhymes such as 'One, Two, Three, Four, Five—Once I Caught A Fish Alive' will help your child remember the order of numbers. Other rhymes can introduce important mathematical concepts such as size and order.

The nursery rhymes being focused on during this year's world nursery rhyme week are:- Incy Wincy Spider, Sleeping Bunnies, Wind the Bobbin, Head, Shoulders, Knees & Toes and Down in the Jungle.
